

From the World Federation of Trade Unions

Now more than ever, international solidarity of the workers is vital when imperialism uses its most unveiling nature.

Secretariat of the World Federation of Trade Unions (WFTU)

Dear comrades,

The World Federation of Trade Unions (WFTU), representing its 105 million members around the world, honours the 107th anniversary of the Great October Socialist Revolution. The Rally organised by SHISO-UNDO, alongside all events commemorating this legacy, not only remembers a historic milestone but pays homage to the enduring spirit of solidarity, social justice, and workers' rights that the October Revolution ignited. It is a celebration of the October Revolution's achievements!

One hundred and seven years ago, the world witnessed a monumental shift that forever changed the course of human history. The October Revolution, led by the courageous and visionary leaders of the working class, was a resounding call for equality, an end to exploitation, and the empowerment of workers across the globe.

The principles of the October Revolution remain relevant in today's struggles worldwide. In a period marked by consecutive capitalist crises, those who produce everything are forced to fight daily for survival. This assault on wages and labor rights is compounded by the intensification of repression against the working class. The WFTU stands firm in its daily struggle for workers' emancipation, aspiring to a world free from wage slavery and exploitation, where workers can fully enjoy the fruits of their labor. We continue the fight for a world without imperialist wars, antagonism, and the destruction they bring.

Dear comrades,

Your Rally on the 107th anniversary, takes place in a period when imperialism uses its most unveiling nature, with an ongoing genocide in Palestine, and with gun powder smell all over the planet. In this landscape, military expenditures have risen and reached enormous numbers, alongside with a sharp increase in military exercises and operations, in Asia and every other region. Now more than ever, international solidarity between the working class of Japan, Asia, and the world is vital.

The World Federation of Trade Unions salutes your Rally for the 107th anniversary of the Great October Socialist Revolution. Workers everywhere struggling for justice and dignity can always count on the steadfast support of the international class-oriented trade union movement.

Long live the Great October Socialist Revolution!

Long live the struggle for a world free from exploitation!
